

Abstract

In order to increase the long-term stability of the exhaust catalyst of an internal combustion engine, the exhaust gas is purified with respect to volatile phosphorus compounds before entering the catalyst.

10027977.122001